Trotting Record Broken

—BY—

The Stallion, Cresceus.

By Associated Press.

Detroit, July 18.—Cresceus, the stallion owned and driven by Geo. H. Ketcham, of Toledo, in winning the free for all trot this afternoon, went the second heat in 2:05 flat, the fastest time ever made in a trotting race.

Charlie Herr, the stallion owned by David Cahill of Lexington, was the only opponent in this race. He was a slow second.

Cresceus won the first heat by five lengths in 2:06 1/4, the fastest heat trotted this year, until he broke the world's race record for trotters in the next heat. The other events were drawn out and tiresome.

Chicago.

By Associated Press.

Chicago, July 18.—The Hyde Park stake for two year olds produced a surprise in the defeat of Abe Frank. He was beaten by both Sir Oliver and Memnon.

Six youngsters started in the Hyde Park, which with $5000 added to 136 nominations, is the richest two year old event of the year in the west.

Memnon was the pacemaker. Chas. W. Myer ran in second place to the turn into the stretch where Bulman brought up Abe Frank, the latter running strong, but he hung perceptibly till he got on even terms with Memnon. Then Sir Oliver came tearing along on the outside. Memnon had a little in reserve but he was unable to stay off Sir Oliver, who won by a length and a half, while Memnon beat Abe Frank half a length. Pentrost was never dangerous.

The fifth race was declared off and a six furlongs and 55 yards race was substituted. The track was slow.

Five and one-half furlongs: Belle Commoner, first; Hans Wagner, second; Emathion, third. Time, 1:11.

Six furlongs: Money Muss, first; Likeness, second; Boney Boy, third. Time, 1:17.

MUST AVOID HELL GATE.

Secretary of Navy Forbids Warships Repeating the Risky Trip of the Massachusetts.

Capt. Henry N. Maury, U. S. N., took the battleship Massachusetts through Hell Gate the other day on the way to Newburyport, and the result was a general order from the secretary of the navy that no battleship shall ever go through Hell Gate again unless by express authority of the department or in great emergency. Capt. Maury preferred the route partly because it is shorter than the open sea course and partly because it is easier to adjust compasses in the placid waters of the sound. There is more danger, of course, in passing through Hell Gate than in passing through the narrows, but even a vessel that draws 27 feet, like the Massachusetts, can depend pretty well in getting through unless there should be a tangle of craft.

The battleship got through shipshape and sound apparently, using its twin screw to help steer the devious course. There is plenty of water in the gate and the navigators of the Massachusetts knew by chart and experience just where to find it.

Rear Admiral Barker, commandant of the navy yard, did not approve Capt. Maury's adventure. "If the Massachusetts gets through it will be all right," said the admiral, "but if anything happens the captain will be responsible."

RICHES BAR TO ART.

French Critic Blames Bad Taste of Wives of American Millionaires.

Declares That Though American Art is Superior to That of England, It is Backward Because of Inartistic Purchases.

Jean Beraud, the French artist and critic, is out in an interview in regard to American art.

Modern art, M. Beraud says, is decadent, especially that of England, which has gone rapidly downhill. American art is superior to the English, though it has not as yet struck the characteristic note, being over-influenced by European ideas.

The Americans, M. Beraud says, excel in a certain electrical quality of execution, but the American millionaires are somewhat responsible for the backwardness of American art because their purchases are influenced by their wives, whose demands are devoid of taste.

The American millionaires, M. Beraud declares, possess gross conceptions and buy in the spirit of the peddler and not for real love or appreciation of art. He expressed the opinion that the time has come when the United States should establish a national salon.

M. Beraud agrees with the sentiments of the delegates of the Young Men's Christian association convention at Boston that "pictures should not be exhibited in public places, though it would be absurd to exclude them from art museums. He thinks the religious spirit tends to depress art. The great masters in religious communion except Michael Angelo had the pagan spirit in direct transition from the Greeks.

Although M. Beraud has never been in America, he is well known here and his name has been given to a race horse and a steamer.

HUGE TUNNEL NOW ASSURED.

The East River Tunnel, Said to Be Backed by Great Moneyed Companies.

Two of the greatest railroad terminal projects ever started in this country, the tunnel under East river from Long Island in New York and the bridge across the North river from New Jersey to New York, each to cost many millions of dollars, are backed by the Pennsylvania Railroad company, and both will be built either by the railroad company or by corporations financed by the railroad.

The announcement made the other day that a company whose incorporators are vice presidents and other high officials of the Pennsylvania would build the East river tunnel was officially confirmed at Broad street station. It is understood that arrangements for financing the tunnel company have been under way for a year past, and that the millions needed to bore the subway under the East river and thence into the very heart of New York city will be readily forthcoming.

Fourth Vice President Samuel M. Rea, of the Pennsylvania, is the moving spirit in the tunnel company and the largest stockholder therein. The capital is now only $1,000,000, but that will soon be multiplied many times.

To Destroy Submarine Boats.

The lords of the admiralty the other day inspected an apparatus designed to destroy submarine torpedo boats. The destroyer Star Fish, which was fitted up for the purpose of the experiment, carried a projecting 42-foot boom, to which was attached an outrigger torpedo charged with 32 pounds of gun cotton.

A submerged barrel represented a submarine boat. The Star Fish steamed past, and when within striking distance the boom was dropped in such a manner that it and the outrigger were driven downwards.

The torpedo was fired by electricity and the barrel and boom were blown to pieces.
